Product-Specific Risks

You are exposed to Equities Risk

- The value of stocks may fluctuate, sometimes dramatically, in response to the activities and results of individual companies or because of general market and economic conditions or other events.

You are exposed to Bonds, Debt Instruments & Fixed Income & Credit Risks

- The value of bonds and debt instruments will fluctuate depending on market interest rates, the credit quality of the issuer and liquidity considerations.
- Investments may be adversely affected if any of the institutions with which money is deposited suffers insolvency or other financial difficulties (e.g. default). Credit risk arises from the uncertainty about the ultimate repayment of principal and interest of a bond or other debt instrument investments.

You are exposed to Emerging Markets Risks

- Prices of emerging market securities may be more volatile than securities in more developed markets due to political and economic factors. This volatility may be exacerbated by legal, trading liquidity, settlement, transfer of securities and currency factors.

You are exposed to Emerging Markets (Russia only) Risk

- The Sub-Fund invests in Russia and it is understood that under current Luxembourg regulations, the Sub-Fund may invest not more than 10% of its net assets in unlisted securities not dealt on a regulated market. Some investments in Russian securities may be considered as falling within such limit.
- The Russian market presents specific risks in relation to the settlement and safekeeping of securities as well as the registration of assets where registrars are not always subject to effective government or other supervision.

You are exposed to Derivatives Risk

- The use of financial derivative instruments may give rise to leverage, liquidity, counterparty and valuations risks at times. In adverse situations, the Sub-Fund's use of derivative instruments may become ineffective and the Sub-Fund may suffer significant losses.

You are exposed to QFII Risks

- The Sub-Fund may incur losses due to limited investment opportunities in onshore China fixed income securities, or may not be able to fully implement its investment objectives due to QFII investment restrictions, illiquidity of the onshore China fixed income securities market, and/or delay or disruption in execution of trades or in settlement of trades.

You are exposed to Credit Rating Risk

- Credit ratings assigned by rating agencies are subject to limitations and do not guarantee the creditworthiness of the security and/or issuer at all times.

You are exposed to RMB Currency Risk

- Chinese RMB is traded in two markets (in and outside the PRC) at different rates and any divergence may adversely impact investors. Onshore RMB is not freely convertible and while offshore RMB is freely tradable outside the PRC, this market is complex and evolving. The Sub-Fund may be exposed to greater foreign exchange risks. Payment of redemptions and/or dividends in RMB may be delayed due to applicable exchange controls and restrictions.
